

Roseni Dearden has been an INWES Board Member and Chair of Communications since 2014. She is an electronics and electrical engineer by training, with over thirty years experience as a design engineer, project manager, and educator in the commercial, public, cooperative, and not-for-profit sectors. She is passionate about cooperatives, community-building, and empowering women; and a firm believer in the power of harnessing technology to achieve progressive social outcomes.