

About Yvette Ramos :

Holds a Master's degree in Science of Engineering –(Electronics Telecom) from the Ecole d'Ingénieurs EPF (Polytechnique Féminine) in 1992 in France.

Holds a Master's Degree in Human Resource Management and MBA "Change & Technology Management" from IAE Aix-En-Provence, France (2002)

With a background in Engineering (Electronics and telecoms) and over twenty years professional experience, starting with a position of Project Manager in the Industry (Schlumberger, Ascom) to Expert in Strategic planning and Change Management to the UN, Yvette has held different and diverse positions such as CEO of an industrial firm in Switzerland 2009-2011, and Managing Director of an Intellectual Property Law firm based in Geneva since 2012.

She is also since over 10 years an Expert to the ITU, the International Telecom Union, and the World Meteorological organizations, thanks to which she had the opportunity to travel in over 60 countries, mostly in the developing regions of the World.

Active member of the French Association of Women Engineers (FI) since 2003, the Portuguese Women in Science Association (AMONET) since 2007 and the International Network of Women Engineers and Scientists (INWES) since 2003, she has taken another challenge since 2011, as first woman president of the Swiss Engineering Geneva chapter. Since 2014, she is also Chairperson of the Romandie Committee of Swiss Engineering, and Director for Europe West of INWES. More recently, as INWES kicked-off in Europe in November 2016, she took over the responsibility of Secretary General of INWES Europe.

Yvette is a native from Portugal, resides in France and at 48 happily married with three children.